Can you start Anydesk automatically when turning on a computer?

To use Anydesk in this way, it is necessary to use Anydesk with installation on the device to which you want to connect and to which you are connected (not the portable version of the program).

This version of the program allows Anydesk to be available even if you are not logged in on the device you are connecting to, it allows you to log in/out of the current session as well. You must also have unattended access to the device configured.
