How to Fix Double-Click Issues in AnyDesk on Apple Devices by Disabling Assistive Touch

If you are using AnyDesk on an Apple device and have noticed the need for double-clicking everything, it might be the result of the Assistive Touch feature being enabled. While this feature can be beneficial for some users, it may disrupt the normal functioning of certain applications, including AnyDesk.

To resolve this issue, we recommend disabling Assistive Touch. Here's how you can do it:

1. Go to "Settings" on your Apple device.
2. Select "Accessibility."
3. Look for the "Touch" option and click on "Assistive Touch."
4. Turn off Assistive Touch.

After completing these steps, open AnyDesk again. The double-click issue should be resolved, allowing you to use the application more smoothly. We hope this solution proves helpful and enhances your experience with AnyDesk.
