Remote Worker Packages in AyDesk Advanced

The Remote Worker (RW) license is a vital tool for organizations looking to empower telecommuting and enable their employees to connect remotely to office computers. This option not only provides convenience but also comes at a lower cost compared to a license meant for technical support.

Features of the AyDesk Advanced License

With the AyDesk Advanced license, you can add up to 10 Remote Worker packages, each comprising 10 users. This means managing incoming connections for up to 100 remote workers simultaneously. Such flexibility is crucial for companies that have embraced a hybrid or fully remote work model.

License Structure

It’s important to note that RW licenses are assigned on a named user basis, meaning they are not concurrent licenses. Each remote worker will need their own license to access the system remotely. This ensures better management of connections and a more secure use of the company’s tools.
